Early Years Conference 2019

Nearly 2,000 Early Years practitioners nationwide have benefited from this popular conference. Running for the eighth consecutive year, this event promises to deliver sessions on up-to-the-minute topics by world-class speakers.

This year's focus

In summer 2020, the 17 Early Learning Goals (ELGs) are changing. All Reception teachers in England will be expected to summarise each child's development against these ELGs and complete the Early Years Foundation Stage Profile.

It has been widely reported that these measures are aimed at boosting early language skills and closing the 'word gap' between disadvantaged children and their peers. This conference will review findings from schools that have piloted the revised ELGs and will share best practice with delegates, inspiring practitioners to energise early learners.

Key take-aways

- New ways to spark children's engagement
- Proven ways to help boys and the disadvantaged with communication
- Confidence and skills for teachers to assess the revised Early Learning Goals in summer 2020
- Ideas to create a vocabulary-rich learning environment

The all-star line-up

Alistair Bryce-Clegg

An Early Years favourite, Alistair is an inspirational keynote speaker, consultant and award-winning author. His sessions are always hands-on, down-to-earth and comical (a previous delegate warned future delegates to wear waterproof mascara to his sessions as they may cry with laughter).

Michael Rosen

Michael is one of the most familiar and distinctive writers (and voices) in children's literature. A former Children's Laureate, Michael has written and collaborated on more than 150 books, including Michael Rosen's Book of Nonsense, Little Rabbit Foo Foo and, of course, the unforgettable classic We're Going on a Bear Hunt.

Alex Grady

Alex is an Education Development Officer for NASEN, the leading organisation supporting professionals working in the field of SEND. She has led the development of NASEN's Early Years SEND resources and training and has over 25 years' experience teaching children and young people with SEND.

Jan Dubiel

Jan was identified by the Times Educational Supplement as one of the ten most influential people in British education in 2018. He has experience working across Nursery, Reception and Year 1 and more recently was Head of National and International Development at Early Excellence where he was responsible for developing EExBA, used by 12,000 schools as a Baseline Assessment.

Pam Mundy

Pam is an internationally renowned consultant, author, trainer and keynote speaker. She works with schools and ministries of education on Early Years learning, teaching and leadership worldwide, including the UK Department for Education representing the Curriculum Foundation on EYFS Reviews. Her speaker style is engaging and practical, with a strong focus on developing and supporting early learning and development.
