

Presenter Profile

Bradley Busch

A mindsets specialist, published author and registered psychologist, Bradley has worked in education, sport and business for over 10 years, helping numerous individuals develop a positive, more resilient mindset.

Bradley has coached Premiership footballers and members of Team GB, but is most heavily involved with supporting teachers and parents across the nation and throughout Europe to maximise their potential. He has worked with over 200 schools and thousands of teachers as well as regularly speaking at national education conferences.

A Loughborough graduate and former university lecturer, Bradley has a deep knowledge of what it takes to be successful under pressure. He brings his extensive psychological expertise to everyone he trains.

Bradley is the co-author of Release Your Inner Drive, a book aimed at teenagers that illustrates what a successful mindset looks like, and lays out the path to obtaining it. His highly interactive and motivational training is certain to provide all teachers with the practical tools they need to embed growth mindsets in their students as well as themselves. Bradley's areas of expertise include:

Coaching - Emotional Well-being - Mindsets - Teaching and Learning

Published work

Bradley writes a regular education blog, The Science of Learning and Teaching, for the Guardian.

Release Your Inner Drive: Everything You Need to Know about How to Get Good at Stuff, co-authored with Edward Watson, 2017, Crown House Publishing

Testimonials

"Bradley is a great teacher. The importance of building in reflection and discussion time to process learning was beautifully modelled by him. It was exactly what attendees needed, and we are now much more confident about how to get to the next step of embedding growth mindsets across college."

Course Delegate

"Thank you very much for such a great training day. It has had a real impact on how I think about my class, as well as my own two children."

Course Delegate

"I thoroughly enjoyed the day and have been raving about it to my colleagues."

Course Delegate

To enquire about booking Bradley Busch, please contact us:

 01790 755 783  osiriseducational.co.uk  @OsirisEdu